THE LONG PEACE SINCE 1865.

Angel of Peace, thou hast wandered too long Spreading thy wings to the members of love!
Come, while our voices are blended in song
To our ark the angels are calling thee.
Fly to our ark on the wings of the dove!
Speed over the far reaching waters of song,
O'er and with olive leaf garlanded love,
Angel of Peace, thou hast wandered too long.

Brothers, we meet on the altar of truth,
Smelling the gifts we have gathered for thee.
Sweet with the odors of myrtle and pine,
Fires of the spirit and breath of the sea,
Meadow and mountain, and forest and sea,
Sweet is the fragrance of myrtle and pine;
Sweet is the incense we offer to thee.
Brothers, once more, round this altar of truth,
Angel of Peace, thou hast wandered too long.

then reported the orders to his men to allow no one to pass between the house and the army lines. There was danger in Andrew's course, for he had fairly taken it on himself to guard the farm from the ravages of warriors, and also taken risks on the exposure of army secrets by allowing intercourse of civilian soldiers. But he believed that the woman was true and that harsh rules might be avoided in rare cases.

Some time after the camp had become quiet, the negro and the boy came across the beyond the road, and halted at the gate for a sign to enter. Andrew was hailed and he opened the gate, and the old man passed on as silent as a funeral march. A cunning negro knows how to be mean when something dear to him is at stake. Before midnight the negro came by a touch on the arm. "There was a second door leading to an inner room, and from there an elderly lady came out to meet the caller. Miss Ellwood brought the stranger forward and he was greeted with affection and a carol. The young woman took his hand, their eyes met, and Andrew said to himself, "They are lovers."

MISS ELLWOOD DREW A CHAIR IN FRONT.
The sergeant was now presented by the other soldier as "a friend" and then Miss Ellwood dropped a low bow and said, laughing, "Now it is my turn; my mother and my cousin Edward!"

The same spell, the frankness and the unusual gentleness of this Virginia people, told on the sergeant again and reassured him. "Edward" was himself with reserve, mingled with tenderness. The children who had been by the roadside that day came up and greeted the new comers shyly and somewhat coldly, calling him "Uncle." The mystery in these strange relationships would have puzzled Andrew not a little had he tried to unravel it. He answered them, he said to the company, "I'll take you outside until you are ready." The visit lasted an hour or more.
When Miss Ellwood came to the door with her visitor Andrew said, "I'll keep my pledge as far as I can. My army is moving its lines back and this house will be outside of the pickets. How far outside I don't know, but the army will hold this ground and then my power will end." "Edward" said to himself, "Miss Ellwood said promptly, and with a smile, 'I can answer that for you. I will be with you with feelings that the soldiers will not count nearer than at present and we shall be outside the lines, unless your army camp is here.'"

They reached Andrew's guard post, now the outer Union picket, "Edward" said to the other, "Comrade, our trade is soldiering, and we have no business with feelings that clash with duty. But there is a secret here we must keep of you to respect and I pledge my faith you shall not be harmed by what you do."

With a trust for the next night they separated.

The armies settled in winter quarters, the Ellwoods placed between the camps and in sight of both. Andrew had periodical tours of duty on the outside, and young Seyton for he was in reality found a ready ally to pass him through the pickets by night and to guard him on his risky errand.
Whether that errand was one of love only or with some deeper dramatic interest, he could not tell. He had no business with the comfort of the family circle, and a still stronger charm for a soldier settled at Ellwood farm.

"The named Miss Ellwood, said. O, miss also named Ellwood, too, said. But I've known, I've named Patrick Henry, said.
"Patrick Henry Ellwood of course."
"Oh, my, miss, I'm no Ellwood, said.
I belong to Ellwood's Mars Seyton."

"Where's your master?" said Andrew, sharply.
"My man, said. O, miss, said, said.
Young Mars done gone. Duano, said, which he done gone, said.
Andrew knew that he could not get full details from a negro at once, and as there were no white men on the place he shouldered his musket and went to learn the acquaintance at Ellwood farm.

"O, miss," he learned on the way, was head mistress, and had been twice widowed.
The last master, Col. Ellwood, had been killed in the Confederate army. A son of the first master, Capt. Seyton, was now in that army, and still another son, owner, as Andrew knew, of Patrick Henry and one more on the place, was a wanderer.
"Mars Ellwood and my Mars Edward never could get on together," the old woman said.
"Young Mars," Edward called him, the negro, was an Ellwood, having been a minor when she received a step father.

The two women entered the house, with a garden and yard and a path ran from the track to a side door. As he passed the front of the house an old-style, cross shaped manteau-and-hat stand was waiting for him. The door and windows, giving a very described look. The back part was open and the negro went to the doorway of a room between the parlor and kitchen. Now the heroine of the occasion stopped on the porch, and by a slight nod and gesture, showed the soldier a seat by the door. Andrew sat down, and said, "No, miss, I am on duty. How can I serve you?" He spoke with studied reserve.
Without confusion or change of color, the old woman said, "You are certainly welcome. I sent you because I wish to know if there was a guard here at the lane?"

"No, miss, no, must ask it unless you wish. May I ask why?" She thought a moment and finally said, "There is no objection to a guard, yet it might be unpleasant." The speaker was clearly of fair hair, and old womanhood, a winner of notice rather by her manner than by physical beauty, but which, however, she was richly endowed.
Andrew was earnest, and he said, "I am sorry, but I cannot tell you. I regret you cannot rest yourself here (mentioning to the broad seat), you soldiers seem to be always in notion, and I have something to tell you."

"There were no white people in sight excepting the fragile young woman, but from windows and doors and the corners of houses and sheds, the shining faces of the slaves peered out curiously. Andrew was amazed by this that no enemies lurked at hand or the negroes would be in hiding. He sat down and Miss Ellwood drew a chair in front of him so that he could see from prying eyes, and said, "I beg a favor, and that of you personally. It is too trifling, but I wish a question to ask to your general, may with other care." Such frankness was itself winning, and Andrew answered, "I shall serve you if I can and do my duty."

"You can be true to duty," she said.
"You have a friend, a new friend, in my army whom I wish to have come here, tonight, if possible, or the next night, say, tomorrow."

Andrew, nervously, but the other, not noting his mood, continued, "There are a family secret at the bottom of this and I can go no farther now, but I can summon them through our people, if you will direct them to my camp, and let him come and go, you shall come with him. If that will answer your duty better."

He was an soldier now, and searching the face before him, said, hesitantly, "What regiment does your friend serve?"

"The - Pennsylvania,"

Hopkinsville, Kentucky.

CHAS. M. MACHAM, Editor.

TUESDAY, MAY 28, 1889.

HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

A live and growing town of 10,000. The Louisville and Nashville railroad is the life of the town and the people have recently voted to have a new road. Largest tobacco growing county in the world. Wheat, corn, hay, coal, livestock and fruit produced for export in large quantities. The city has four banks with an aggregate capital of $1,000,000. A planing mill and wagon factory, three carriage factories, lime factory, tobacco manufactory, foundry, three brick yards, broom factory, steam laundry, ice factory, two large flouring mills in the city and several in the county. Splendid drive par land and opera house. Five turnpikes centering in Hopkinsville. Building and Loan Association, Commercial Club, a telephone exchange, numerous streets and houses and city lighted by gas. Macadamized streets and brick sidewalks all over the city. Eleven churches, two colleges, a high school and the finest system of public schools, white and colored, in the State. Western Kentucky Normal Institute with a population of 600, two miles east of the city. A 100,000 acre tract with town clock in the dome. A fine fire department and a company of State Guards. Little River furnishes an adequate supply of water for all purposes. Real estate low and rents cheap. Real estate opening for wood mill, pork packing establishment, fruit canner, tannery and many other enterprises. Climate mild and invigorating and exceedingly healthful.

The Democratic Committee will meet on Monday, June 10 to take action in the legislative race.

A serious riot occurred at Guthrie, Oklahoma, last week over a dispute between two claimants for the same lot.

The Pope has named seven new Cardinals. They are all foreigners with names an Englishman can't pronounce.

Queen Victoria celebrated her 70th birthday on the 24th of May. She has been Queen of England for 51 years.

Mr. T. O. Chisholm, late of the Franklin Favorite, has succeeded Mr. Vaseo D. Brown as editor of the Adairville Times.

The Ohio Valley Railroad has completed its line to Evansville and removed its headquarters from Henderson to that place.

The St. Thomas Orphan's Asylum at Bardonia was recently burned and eighty orphans made homeless. The children have been taken to Louisville and an effort will be made to rebuild.

Mr. W. S. Sturcott, who formerly published a paper at Central City, has started a new paper at Whitesville, which he has given the novel but rather well chosen name, the Kentucky Colonel.

A paper endorsing the candidacy of Mr. F. M. Pierce, signed by his neighbors, is published in today's paper. Mr. Pierce is the only Democratic candidate for the nominal nation so far announced.

In a card published in this issue, Mr. F. M. Pierce declines to be a Democratic candidate for the Legislature. Mr. Pierce is one of the best and most substantial citizens of the county and would have been a strong candidate if he had consented to enter the race.

The Republicans are still casting around trying to settle upon a suitable candidate for the Legislature. One wing of the party is said to favor K. H. B. Clark while the other prefers E. T. C. Thiney or Mr. J. M. Starling. The nomination will not be made until July 1.

Wm. Keneater a murderer, will be the first person to be executed by electricity in New York or the United States. He will be put to death during the week beginning June 24, the exact time being kept a secret from him, under the new law of the State.

Laura Bridgman, deaf, dumb and blind from 2 years of age, made widely famous by Charles Dickens in his American Notes, also by many public references to her wonderful intelligence, died Friday at the South Boston Asylum, where she has long dwelt, aged 60.

The Democrats had better look sharp. The Republicans are threatening to make the Treasurer's contest, so hot they can't barrel. In such an event, however, the Prohibitionists would doubtless remove the Cobb stopper from their jug of cold water and cool off things a little.

The Morganfield Sun says H. Y. Thomas, Jr., will recover from his wound received in the Caseyville affair and that his leg will be saved. A warrant has been issued and as soon as his leg is well enough the examining trial will be held. Public sentiment is pretty equally divided on the subject.

Scribner's Magazine for June marks the beginning of a new enterprise not less notable than the Railway Series commenced a year ago. It is the series of popular articles on "The Practical Applications of Electricity," a subject which has become of chief importance in the scientific, commercial, and industrial worlds. The opening article, by Professor C. P. Brackett, of Princeton, is entitled "Electricity in the Service of Man." It is an introductory paper which sets forth, in a clear and precise way, some of the common methods by which the more important electrical phenomena are produced, the laws which they reveal, and the principles involved in measuring electrical quantities such as the Volt, Ampere, and Ohm—terms which have lately come into general use, though not popularly understood.

CREAM OF NEWS.

Another Just Verdict.

In Friday's New Era the following notice appeared: "This jury in the case of Tom Leavelle against the L. & N. railroad company, returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff this morning. Tom Leavelle will be remembered as the old colored man who was knocked from the track by a freight car in the city limits several months ago. The old man fled through his attorney against the heartless, soulless corporation, claiming damages to the amount of $2,000."

Our neighbor is in error. The jury gave a prompt verdict for the defendant, as it should have done. There was no merit in the case. Tom Leavelle, colored, was walking between the main and mill tracks of the railroad in this city on May 18. The tracks are 3 feet apart and the engine projections 20 inches, leaving a clear space of 5 feet. Leavelle admitted that he saw the train coming and fled 300 feet away, but went on 170 feet further before making any movement to get out of the way. He claimed that he was then "humped" off because he had no room to step aside, and sued the road for $2,000. The jury that tried the case were sent to the spot and stood between the tracks while trains passed and found that there was room enough for four men to stand between the moving cars. Their verdict was promptly and unanimously in favor of the defendant. A verdict against the railroad in such a case as this would have been simply an outrage.

Attempted Safe Robbery.
An attempt was made by burglars to blow open the iron safe of the plant & Gunther Co., in their tobacco warehouse, about midnight Saturday night. Parties in the vicinity remembered having heard the explosion after the discovery was made Sunday. No investigation was made at the time, but the robbers were doubtless frightened away by hearing some noise, as they left a crowbar and other tools by the safe. The inside of the safe was not broken open and nothing was disturbed. The fact that an attempt to open it had been made was not discovered until Sunday afternoon.

The Two Chestnuts.
The Collectorship and the O. V. bond case are still unsettled.
It was confidently expected that a Collector would be appointed Wednesday of last week, but the matter went over and may or may not be settled this week.

A decision in the O. V. case was looked for Saturday, but it came not and is still hanging fire. It may come this week. The tardiness may be taken as a hopeful sign, since bad news travels fastest.

Residence Burglarized.
The dwelling house of J. H. Reese, an old farmer living in the Mc Vernon district, was entered by burglars Friday, during the absence of the family and robbed of $35 in money and a lot of valuable papers. The thieves entered by breaking open the door, which was locked. At last accounts no clue to the robbers had been discovered.

Dr. "Amos" Thomas Stabbed.
Dr. J. Q. Thomas, surgeon for the inmates of the penitentiary, was seriously stabbed by a convict, while trying to stop a fight between convicts, near Paris, Friday. A telegram to relatives here Sunday says his wound, which is below the ninth rib, is not dangerous.

Dedicated.
The new Universalist church was formally dedicated as a house of worship Sunday morning. Rev. S. F. Gibbs and wife, Rev. Sophia Gibbs, officiated.

Marriage Licenses.

There is no truth in the report maliciously circulated by some person that there will be no horses here this week for the races. The management has positive assurance of the presence of 40 or 50 good horses, many of which are already arriving.

Mr. A. H. Watkins, of the Beverly vicinity, discovered on his place, while digging a well, a stream of mineral water containing iron, sulphur and potash. The water is very strong and has been used by several dyspeptics and other invalids with the very best results.

Rev. J. N. Prestridge preached the annual sermon to the graduating class of Bethel Female College Sunday night. The Christian church held no services and Rev. Mr. MacDonald was present and assisted in the exercises. The audience was very large, even the gallery being packed to suffocation almost. The sermon was one of the speaker's best efforts and was listened to with rapt attention throughout.

The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Company, after a stay of a month here, left Sunday for Madisonville. They kept an orderly camp while in this city and did a large business. Their performances were decent and entertaining and were attended by some of the best people of Hopkinsville. They sold 1,122 bottles of "Sagwa" while here. The premium offered to the person guessing nearest to the number of bottles sold was awarded to J. W. Boyd Saturday night. His guess was 1,111.

The amount can be increased to $50,000 with very little effort. As yet, we believe, it has not been decided whether to make it a State or national bank, but after the advantages of both systems have been considered it is more than likely that the national system will be adopted."

A new first-class Stock of Clothing to be retailed out at Manufacturers' Cost and no humbug. The cost sale chestnut has been practiced on the people of Christian county so often that it seems to me that all will doubt this as soon as they read it. But all I ask of those wishing to purchase good, reliable, honest Clothing at the prices that the largest merchants pay for them. Come to my store and I will prove to you that the prices I ask are cost and nothing else.

My object in this proceeding is to close out my stock of Clothing as soon as possible in order to use the up stairs of my house for other goods and will not handle Clothing at all when my present stock is sold out, so if you intend to inspect this elegant stock do so before the best are picked out. This will be a made cost closing out sale to sell out this stock. I will give to any one wishing it the key to my mark and they can at their own leisure look through my goods and see what I paid for them and take them home at that price. Remember the place.
